DESMO

The Company's handcrafted, classic leather designs that stand the test of time, have made the Desmo name itself synonymous with high fashion couture. "When you have a high-end, classic product that does not change every three months, you know it will be one of the last to die". Fantappie and his father Mario who founded the firm in 1975 have been exposing that specific philosophy for 17 years. Not ones to pounce on the latest trendy colors, prints or treatments simply for the sake of making fashion news, the firm focuses on their customers' interests in innovative yet classic designs.

Desmo's products are in high demand in Europe as well as the Far East and North and Central America. Still, the Fantappie's like to maintain close, personal contact with their customers and boutiques. "We want to stay in touch with style expectations by promoting constant communication to all those interested and involved in Desmo", says Fantappie. "We believe excellence is achieved by paying rigorous attention to detail". Check out Desmo's online boutique, where they have hand-chosen a collection of their famous handbags exclusively for online customers. Many prestigious stores throughout the world carry Desmo accessories.

PIEROTUCCI

Established in 1972, Pierotucci is a leather factory with its own retail leather and jewelry stores located in Florence, Italy. Pierotucci is proud to be one of the few retail stores that carry on the old Florentine tradition of selling handcrafted leather goods directly from its factory.

Pierotucci began as a small leather shop in the historical Florence center where Piero designed and manufactured all the leather goods himself, supplying local retailers with his creations. In the early 1980's Piero started developing private label merchandise for famous designers such as Dunhill, Bally, Valentino Garavani, Fratelli Rossetti, Cole-Haan, and most recently, Hugo Boss.

Throughout this period, business continued to grow and in early 1990 Piero achieved an even greater demand for his merchandise. In 1994, the handiwork of Pierotucci became available to the general public through the opening of the Leather goods shop which was quickly proceeded by the Art & Jewelry Shop. In 2002 came the unveiling of Pierotucci.com which was designed to offer Pierotucci's quality leather goods throughout the world.

The year 2006 started with the opening of the new Pierotucci boutique located in the heart of Florence's shopping district on via Tornabuoni. There it stands proudly among other fine Italian high fashion boutiques such as Versace, Ferragamo and Prada.

Pierotucci is open to forming business-to-business collaborations in any part of the world. Would you like to sell our Pierotucci products in your country? Are you interested in

I SANTI

The sole-proprietor firm Santi Amato was established for the manufacture of bags and other leather goods at 13 Via Melzo, Milan. The first leather goods shop was opened at 21 Corso Indipendenza, in Milan, under the sign Valigeria Indipendenza di Santi Amato. Despite having been a POW, Santi maintained commercial relations with Germany and participated in the Offenbach Fair, from which he drew inspiration for an Italian leather goods fair.

Through his work with ANIPEC (the leather goods manufacturers' association), Amato Santi was instrumental in launching Mipel, the international leather goods showcase, the first of its kind in Italy. In the same year, the Diva bag factory was opened in Chiesina Uzzanese. It was named after Diva, Amato's wife. The "I SANTI" brand collections are still made in this corner of Tuscany.

The firm moved to its current headquarters at 2 Via Corio near the Porta Romana district in Milan. At the same time, the company opened its first airport shop, in Linate's domestic-flights hall. Soon after, another shop was opened in Malpensa airport and the firm's leading store on Corso Lodi in Milan.

Thanks to Amato Santi's guidance, the Ci.Pi.Elle (Consorzio Pellettieri Lombardi, Lombardy leather goods manufacturers' association) was set up to promote exports of leather bags and accessories. I Santi held many events to celebrate its 50 years of activity. "I SANTI" is 60: that many years passed since the faraway day in march 1947 when the firm took its first step in the world of leather goods.

Ever since, through continuous progress -the fruit of Amato Santi's business acumen and the commitment of whole family -the brand has exported throughout the world, becoming synonymous with quality and meticulous eye for detail.

FURLA

Furla was incepted in 1927 when founder Aldo Furlanetto began his travels across Europe as a trader in accessories. In the Seventies, the torch was passed down to his children; Giovanna, Carlo and Paolo, and they launched the first Furla bag collection. It was instant success.

Headquartered in Bologna, Italy, Furla produces many categories of product including; handbags, shoes, small leather goods, belts, scarves, and jewelry.

It has established itself as the successful international accessories brand known today.

One of Furla's most exceptional characteristics is its 196 free-standing stores present across 64 countries. The brand is also carried in over 1,000 specialty shops and department stores worldwide.

Furla collections are handcrafted in Italy and are known for simple and elegant style. Made from the finest leathers and materials, the brand continues to invest in research and technology to assure constant innovation in all its lines and categories.

Maintaining the tradition of a decades-long family heritage is a major priority for Furla, and Aldo's three grandsons now work in the company with Giovanna Furlanetto.

In 2007, Furla appointed Paolo Fontanelli as Chief Executive Officer presiding over its Corporate Office and 9 subsidiaries (USA, France, Spain, UK, Japan, Hong Kong, China, Germany, and Australia).

This marked the first time corporate leadership was attained outside the family. It reflects the entrepreneurial spirit to invest in the growth and future success of the company.
